If the victims of Hurricane Katrina could write their own narratives, what would they say?

Would we watch?

If they could make their own media, what would it be?

Would we listen?