Join us for a lunch discussion with Prof. Yang Shao-Horn

Wednesday, March 16 2011
12:30 PM – 1:30 PM
202 Gavett Hall

Yang Shao-Horn is Associate Professor in the Department of Mechanical Engineering and the Department of Materials Science and Engineering at MIT. Her research interests include materials for electrochemical energy storage and conversion, thermodynamics and kinetics of electrochemical reactions and application of transmission electron microscopy.

Prof. Shao-Horn obtained her Ph.D. in Metallurgical and Materials Engineering from Michigan Technological University in 1998 and then worked as a staff scientist at Eveready Battery Company until 2000. Prof. Shao-Horn joined MIT in August 2002 after a two-year NSF International Research Fellowship at the Institute of Condensed Matter Chemistry in Bordeaux, France. Her honors include the Tajima Prize of the International Society of Electrochemistry 2008 and the Charles W. Tobias Young Investigator Award of the Electrochemical Society 2008.

Brown bag lunch: bring your own lunch and join in the discussion!

All faculty and students (graduate and undergraduate) are welcome!

Contact Cristina Canavesi at wieroc@gmail.com for more information